

The background is a detailed, atmospheric illustration of a futuristic city at night. The scene is dominated by deep blues and purples, punctuated by warm orange and yellow lights from buildings and streetlights. In the foreground, a sleek, dark flying vehicle is partially visible, angled towards the left. The city features multiple levels of architecture, including balconies, walkways, and a prominent structure with two illuminated spires. The overall mood is one of advanced technology and urban complexity.

"TERRA-LUNA" - EARTH

The United Planets of Earth is a system spanning government centered around the Terra Luna system, (Earth and its moon). The U.P.E.'s sole priority is to support the dying planet of Earth. They do this through heavy exploitation of its colonies in other systems. While their treatment of every planet under their control is harsh, they are most restrictive with the systems on the other side of the Eridani gate colloquially known as the frontier.

Lambda is an organization within the U.P.E. It is an organization that does not technically exist, even though at the highest levels of power, it is ever present. Partly an intelligence service and partly one of political security, Lambda watches everything, knows everything, and will not hesitate to take action against anyone they deem to be a threat to the stability of the U.P.E. Their agents are spread out through all the systems of the U.P.E., but they are at their most visible on the bridges of Capital ships and in the Boardroom of the U.P.E. to ensure those gifted with power use that power only in ways that Lambda approves of. Lambda agents, when they are known at all, are known as lambdas: men and women who are augmented to grant them abilities far above what would be possible for a normal human. They act as spies, political officers, saboteurs, and when needed, commanders and assassins.

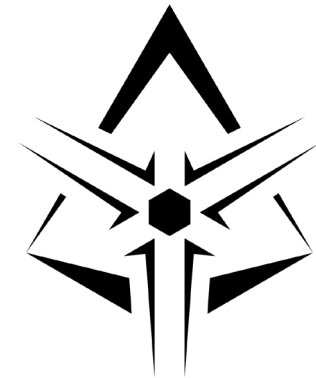

Cade is a Lambda, one of the best, one of the most trusted, and one of the most dangerous. Augmented with enhancements that grant him increased strength, agility and durability, as well as numerous infiltration and observation tools. His signature augmentation, a left arm that can transform into a Monomolecular blade, has ended many threats to the U.P.E. long before they even knew they were threats.

To all appearances, Cade resembles a fit but unremarkable man, though a side effect of his enhancements are his eyes. He always wears magnetic sunglasses to cover up the unsettling glow that his augmented eyes give off, eyes that haunt the dreams of the few people who have seen them and lived, always at Cade's discretion. Cade is a man of few emotions and even fewer words.

He doesn't question his duty, he doesn't ask questions about right and wrong, and he cares little for the suffering of others, only about protecting the U.P.E. and its stability. But he is not needlessly cruel. While he won't hesitate to torture or kill when necessary, he despises those who do it when it is not, understanding more than most that needless cruelty makes more enemies in the future, and making an enemy you don't need to is only counter productive.

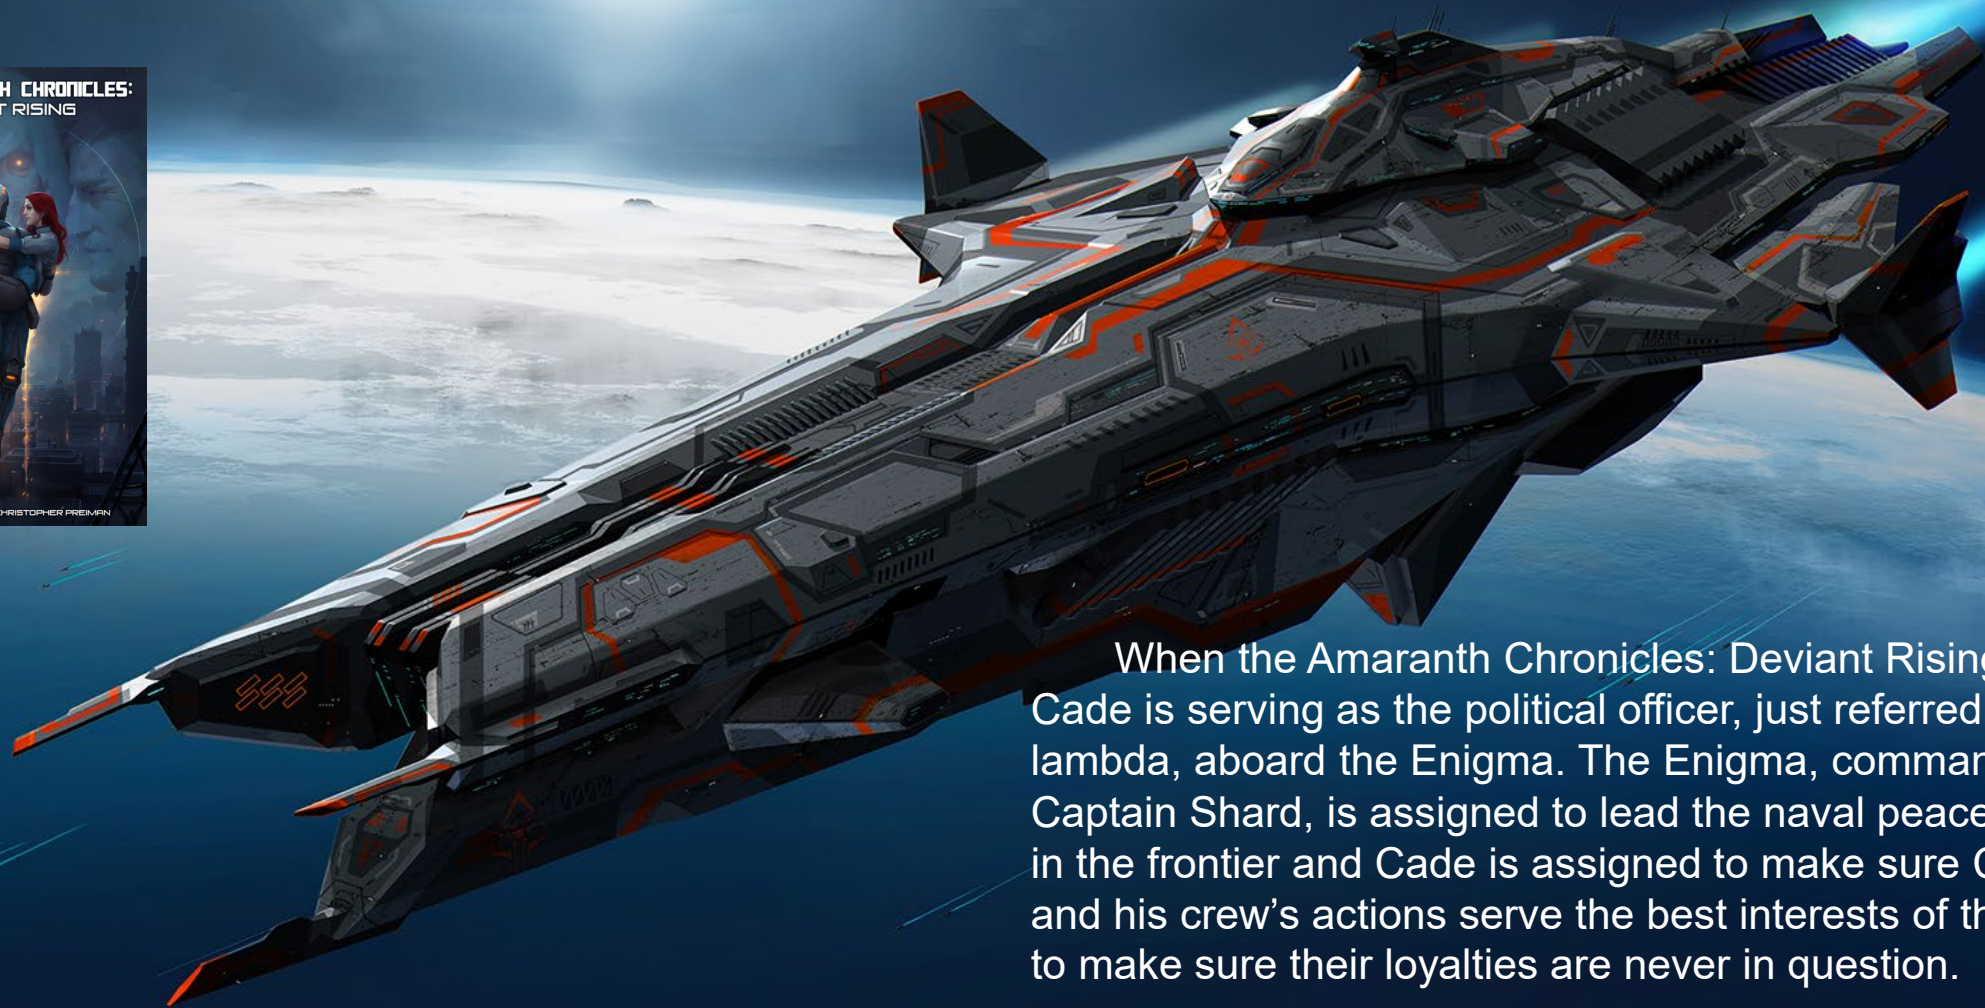

THE
CHRONICLES

When the Amaranth Chronicles: Deviant Rising picks up, Cade is serving as the political officer, just referred to as ship's lambda, aboard the Enigma. The Enigma, commanded by Captain Shard, is assigned to lead the naval peacekeeping force in the frontier and Cade is assigned to make sure Captain Shard and his crew's actions serve the best interests of the U.P.E. and to make sure their loyalties are never in question.
